

Anointing, Sacred

This document about Sacred Anointing explains its meaning and significance in both the Old and New Testaments. Anointing with oil is a practice dating back to antiquity, mentioned in Genesis 28:18 and 35:14. It was used to consecrate people and objects to God's service.

- People who received anointing included prophets, priests, and kings.
- Things that were anointed included the Tabernacle, the Ark of the Testimony, the Brazen Altar, and the Brazen Laver.
- Those who were anointed by God were under His protection and were not to be harmed or insulted.
- The oil used for anointing was divinely prescribed and made by priests. It was holy and could not be imitated or used on anyone other than those specified by God.
- The anointing of Jesus Christ with the Holy Ghost was foretold in the Old Testament and fulfilled in the New Testament.
- Saints are also anointed with the Holy Ghost, and this anointing teaches and guides them.

Overall, the document emphasizes the sacredness of anointing and its connection to God's service, protection, and guidance.
